JOHN S. JOHNSON WILL GO IN AN EXHIBITION MILE.

Many Entries for the Amateur Events -Lively Contests Promised on Broad Ripple Track.

The August meeting of the Indianapolis Cycle Track Association will begin at the Broad Ripple track to-day. There will be some good racing. The afternoon races will begin at 3:30 o'clock and the evening races at 8:30. Besides the amateur events there will be a race against time at each of the three meetings, to-day and to-morrow afternoon. John S. Johnson, the world's champion, will go against time and try to beat his own record. Johnson is the speediest rider on the track to-day. Bestdes this there will be trick riding by Nikolet, of Chicago, who is the best in his line. The great Vim tricycle will be exhibited at each of the meetings, also the two immense Twentieth Century lamps, which are about twelve feet high. These two things will arrive here this morning and will be seen on the streets during the afternoon, Shields, the "Reuben" rider who was here last spring, will do some of his tricks on the tracks. The list of entries for this afternoon and evening promise some good races. They are as follows:

GREAT WORK OF PEARLC.

SHOWS WHAT SHE CAN DO AND WINS THE 2:12 PACE.

Than 2:09 and Two of Them in 2:07 3-4-To-Day's Card.

Yesterday was a great day at the race track. The crowd was not quite so large as on the opening day of the Grand Circuit meeting and some of those who attended went home before the real sensational permained to the last saw, perhaps, the finest race of the season. Not until the last race on the card came did anything of extraordinary importance occur, but then the sport was of the sensational order that is expressed by the sporting fraternity when it is said that the spectators got a good "run for their money." It was in the 2:12 pace that the sport was of this kind. There may be better time made during the meeting (and this is not doubtful), but it would be almost impossible to "make" a race that would possess the interesting and exciting features of this event.

It was a race between Pearl C., owned by J. Coddington, of Lincoln, Ill., and Phenol, owned by C. C. Pearce, of Flemingsburg, Ky., though there were five other starters. Pearl C. had been the strong favorite in the auction pools the night before and was looked upon as an almost sure thing. But when Phenol stepped out and took the first heat from the little bay mare and did it with such ease, Phenol stock went up. It went higher still when, in the second heat, she beat the favorite after getting away in the last of the bunch to leave the wire. But the great Phenol found her Waterloo. It was partly in the horse that was opposing her and partly in the man that was driving her opponent. After the first heat, in which Pearl C. acted badly, Mike Bowerman took charge of her and lost the second heat only by a short length. The beat Phenol out of by such a small nose that the spectators were guessing until the judges announced the winner. It was almost a dead heat, but from above the wire the black nose of Pearl C. was seen to cross the wire an instant before Phenol appeared. This was the prettlest heat of the pretty race. The fifth heat was easy for Pearl C. and with it she won the race. Phenol acted so badly in this heat that she was distanced and lost all interest in the purse. It was a great disappointment to everybody, except, perhaps, the owners of Dick Wilkes and Alti, who got second and third places by the misfortune of Phenol. The other races of the day were good of their kind, barring the fact that they were pulled off in a one, two, three order which is not altogether to the liking of the race lovers. The time was remarkably fast. It is a saying among horsemen that a horse has to be able to go a mile ten seconds faster than its class to win a race. Yesterday in the 2:40 trot a horse had to go twenty seconds faster than the class to keep from being shut out, and in the 2:30 pace the winner took a mark that puts him in the fourteen class. It was fast racing, exciting racing and sensational racing. It was on the whole a day of rac-ing such as may not be duplicated in point of interest and excitement for many a day. The first race was a 2:40 trot for threeyear-olds, with four starters. It seemed to be a foregone conclusion that R. F. Margarette, Macy Bros.' entry, would win the race and it required a deposit of $10 with the books to win $4 on the first heat. After the little roan filly had showed how easy it was for her to eat up her company the books ran her up to 2 to 12. Even at these almost prohibitory odds she was pretty lib-erally played by those interested in the Macy stable. Olivewood was a strong second choice at even money for the place on the first heat and with 3 to 5 in subse-

Margarette took the lead right at th start and led the procession all the way round the track. Olivewood fought hard, but was not equal to the pace set by the little filly. He could only make a poor second, though he showed his superiority over the other two starters. Margarette went under the wire in an easy length ahead of Olivewood and with the others apparently in luck to get inside the flag. The second heat started off in the same style as the first. During the heat Phenol, an entry in the 2:12 pace, was warming up on the track, and when at the turn he stumbled and fell. He was still down when the horses in the race came around and it looked as though there might be a collision, but the horses passed the wreck without trouble, although it had a slightly damaging effect on the time. Margarette could have won by a half dozen lengths, but she was allowed to cross the wire at a jog, with Olivewood but a length in the rear. The third heat was another repetition of the first. The horses finished the same.

The race evoked little manifestation of enthusiasm and after the first heat the books were sparingly patronized. The second race was even more onesided than the first. There were five starters and the four who were left after the first heat finished the three heats in the same order. The story of the first heat is the story of each of the three. Fairview, Joe Bailey and Gus Hornet were on a line at the start and the other two were sent off at little disadvantage. Fairview drew gradually away from the bunch and led the procession by several lengths until he was sure of the heat. Then he eased up and won in a jog from Joe Balley, second, Gus Hornet third and Odd Fellow fourth.

Bruce Patch was distanced in the first

The third race was the crack-a-jack of the day. There were seven starters, Pearl C., Phenol, Alti, King Lud, Nydia Wilkes, Dick Wilkes and Cap Crouch. Pearl C. was considered a sure thing and sold as a strong favorite in the auction pools and was also a strong favorite in the books. She opened at 1 to 2 and closed before the first heat at 2 to 5. Phenol was poor picking at 4 to 2. The fall which she had re-ceived previous to the race caused the belief that she would not be equal to the race and even her trainers were inclined to favor scratching her. The fall was caused by the dropping of the hobbles, which tripped her. She showed a great dislike for the hobbles when an attempt was made to put them on her and it was decided to try her without them. The fall probably proved to be a great piece of luck, for it probably taught her trainers that she would work better unhobbled. The first heat was a great event. The gray mare got away sixth, with Dick Wilkes, the pole horse, in the lead and the favorite a good second. At the quarter Pearl C. was in the lead, with Dick Wilkes second and Phenol a good four lengths away. From the quarter Phenol began to pull up to the bunch. At the half she had passed them and was shooting ahead at a pace that soon closed up the distance between her and Dick Wilkes. She passed the latter at the three-quarter pole and then had only the favorite between her and victory. As the horses turned into stretch Pearl C. was a length and a half in the lead, but the gray mare was doing the best work of the two. As they showed full in the stretch the gray could be seen to be working his way ahead at a speed that was destined to overtake the favorite. At the distance flag the horses were neck and neck. Jones, who was driv-ing Pearl C. plied the whip to save the heat. His horse broke and he was com-pelled to drop back and finish last, giving Phenol the heat by several lengths from

Dick Wilkes. The second heat was more exciting than the first. Mike Bowerman, one of the best drivers in the country, took Jones's place behind Pearl C. The start was good, with Phenol in the lead and Dick Wilkes sec-ond. Pearl C. got a bad start. She was no better than sixth at the start. She passed the shorts before the half was reached and then shot by Dick Wilkes, and at the three-quarters threw the dust in Phenol's face. She made exactly the same race as that made by Phenol in the first heat up to this time, but lacked the ability to maintain her advantage. Under the care of Bowerman she kept her feet and her lead until they were well in the stretch. Then the gray mare came down upon her like a shot, passing her just be-fore the wire was reached and finishing the winner by a length. It was the most exciting finish of the meeting. The crowd fairly went wild as the two great horses came tearing down the stretch. The finish age found on the streets or in public places | was a popular one, for the gray mare had unaccompanied by guardians after 9 p. m. | made warm friends in the grandstand by to summer and 8 p. m. in winter shall be | her beautiful work in the first heat.

In the back stretch Pearl C. pased the gray mare, and at the half had just a length and a half of space between them. She kept gaining to the three-quarter pole, when she was nearly three lengths ahead. When the horses turned into the stretch the big lead of Pearl C. was still hers, but the gray mare was coming fast. Like two machines they came down toward the grandstand. The gray was working like a clock, and Pearl C. was doing her best under the guidance of the master hand of Bowerman. between them. Side by side they crossed the wire, and it was hard to tell which got they saw that of Pearl C. first, and she was awarded the heat. The excitement was ntense pending the decision, and many bets were made on what the decision would be. A great shout went up from the grandstand when it was announced. The specta-

made quite a change in the betting. She was again made the favorite. In the fourth neat she was placed at 3 to 5 to win, while Phenol was offered at 6 to 5. Pearl C. got the lead and kept it throughout. Phenol broke in the stretch, just at a time when she might have passed to the front by a great spurt. This threw her back to third at the finish. The heat did not end the It was won by Pearl C., thus giving her and Phenol two heats each. The race went to Pearl C. easily in the fifth heat. The betting on her was pretty ively at 3 to 10 when the books opened but not nearly so strong as the betting on Phenol at 6 to 2 to win and even money for the place. When the horses were called to the pole and had paced up and down the stretch the books ran Pearl C. up to 1 to and semed to be of the opinion that Dick Wilkes would get the place, for he was offered on an equality with Phenol for second place. The horses started with Pearl C. a little in front of Dick Wilkes and Phenol third. The gray mare passed Dick Wilkes at the quarter, and in the back stretch just got her nose ahead of the favorite when up she went, and when she came down she was hopelessly out of the race. Again, at the three-quarters, she broke, and after Donahue had got her on her feet again his only prospect was of sav-ing his second place, for he was a long way in the rear of the other horses. Pearl C. finished an easy winner, with Dick Wilkes second in the heat and second also in the winning, for Phenol, the horse of great expectations, was distanced. 2:18 Trot at Bullalo Captured by

Anthony's Franklin. BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 19 .- None of the horses in the 2:18 trot to-day was able to give Franklin an argument and he won a hollow victory in easy time. In the 2:27 pace Hamil's Mocking Boy chased out Bright Light in three heats in better time. The third event was a protracted struggle between Fasig's mare Marguerite and the chestnut mare from Michigan, Repeat. The former had the speed and the gameness that won the decisive heat. The attendance was up to the average. Pools were sold as formerly, except that the betting fraternity was corralled within a fence and admission to the inclosure was charged. The track was slightly heavy. Summaries:

Tom Taggart Might Have Won. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MUNCIE, Ind., Aug. 19 .- The attendance at the Muncie fair to-day was small and the only harness race uninteresting because of the effort to keep the horses in the 2:25 class and to do it the judges called the actual time back to 2:24 and a fraction, while the grandstand made a roar of disapproval. It was his first season and it was expected that he would get in the 2:15 class before next year. BRIGHTWOOD FOLLOWS SUIT Bieyelists May Use the Sidewalks at Not Faster Than Six Miles an Hour.

Last evening's meeting of the Brightwood Town Board was an interesting session from a bicyclists' point of view, a number of citizens being present as spectators and if necessary to lend encouragement to their respective champions on the board. A motion was made by Trustee Hodson to the effect that the town marshal and deputies be instructed to make no further arrests for riding bicycles on the sidewalks, miles an hour. Attorney Joseph Kealing knew of no law prohibiting persons from riding bicycles on the sidewalk, and in support of his statement he read the section of the State law supposed to cover that ground. The law quoted prohibits persons rom riding or driving on the sidewalk, but does not mention vehicles or any description of vehicle. After considerable discussion the question was called and the motion carried, Mr. White casting the only dissenting vote. The motion of Mr. Stephens, postponed from the last meeting, was called up, and when put to a vote was lost. The motion provided that the marshal be instructed to collect all of the deputies' badges and relieve them of their commissions. A petition from the majority of resident property owners on the west side of Brightwood street, between Sutherland and Wil low streets, asking for a cement sidewall on that side of the street, was accepted, and the engineer instructed to draw up specifications and advertise for bids. A communication from J. G. Schwartz. asking the board to place him in charge of the water works plant, was promptly laid on the table The marshals were instructed to strictly enforce the stock ordinance, their attention being called to a number of geese running at large in the town. Clerk Valdenaire reported a communication from the Chicago Fire Hose Company, stating that the company was unable to give the town further time on the note held by them. The note was referred to the Bills amounting to $33,65 for rent, supplies and hauling gravel were reported favorably by the finance committee and ordered paid. Cleveland Wins Two. WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 .- Cleveland took two games from the Senators to-day by good pitching and fast fielding. In the first the errors of the home team were of a costly character. Flynn, toward the end of the game, lost his speed and was at no time a puzzle to the visitors. In the second game German was hit freely and in several instances for more than one base. LOST TWO GAMES. Indianapolis Couldn't Beat Both the Umpire and the Tigers.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 19.-The Indians started out to skin the Tigers to-day, but they were chased out of the jungle and left two games behind them. It was the last appearance of the Hoosiers on Detroit soil this season, and both teams made frantic efforts to win the majority of the games. Detroit needed both of those booked for to-day, and got them chiefly through the brilliant work of Fifield. The Hoosiers' pitchers did excellent work in the box, the kind that would win the great majority of games, but it was a case of Fifield doing better. Wiley Davis appeared in the box the first game, his first appearance as a part of a battery for a long time. He showed up magnificently in practice and pitched a splendid game, Detroit getting the fewer hits. In the first inning each team got a run, Indianapolis scoring on hits by Shiebeck and Mc-Carthy. Detroit got one more in the third and two in the fourth, Farrell holding down the score by some great fielding, but Fifield's home run was too much for any of the fielders to get. Indianapolis got the second tally in the fifth. Buckley hit for a single. He was sacrificed to second and "squirrel hunter" brought him home by a beautiful crack for a base. This was all the Hoosiers could get, try as they might. In the sixth there was a possib ity of scoring, for, with men on second and the eighth there were men on second and third and again Stewart was at bat. He hit one squarely in Fifield's hands. Score of first game: A.B. R. H. O. A. Burnett, cf Dungan, rf Whistler, 1..... Hines, s Stallings, If Twineham, c..... A.B. R. H. O. A. Indianapolis. Esterquest, 3..... McCarthy, If

The second game was red fire and pyrotechnics. It was one of those hair-

raising affairs that send baseball enthusiasts wild with delight, and that the Hoosiers didn't win was umpire O'Day's fault. Detroit opened up on Cross, who did the twirling, most viciously. Three hits and two errors by Stewart and a wild throw by Esterquest netted three runs. Buckley hurt his hand in the second inning and was forced to retire, Wood taking his place behind the bat. After the first inning Cross settled down and had the Detroits at his mercy, until the ninth. In the meantime the Hoosiers managed to work in a brace of runs. In the last inning Cross was pounded all over the lot. In attempting to score the third run Fifield was clearly thrown out at the plate by three feet, but O'Day didn't see it. Then came another run, and it was what Detroit needed. When Detroit's half was over the locals had a lead of five runs, but the Hoosiers proceeded to scalp Fifield. Motz was presented with his base and Hogriever and Shiebeck followed with singles. Then Wood walked to first, forcing a run in at the plate. Farrell hit for two bases, making four runs in. He was advanced to third on Cross's sacrifice, but

In that year the Colts lost but seventeen out of Chris's argument was funny. 'I dell you, he said, 'der Browns are tail-enders, but vat t'ell. Somebody must be tail-enders, ain't it?" Judging from the game the Hoosiers have been putting up of late, it looks as though the Columbus aggregation ought to take their measure quite handily, especially when it is considered that Columbus, at her weakest, was always able to make a better showing against the Hoosiers than against any other team in the League Indianapolis never played in harder luck than of late, while Loftus has the best team he has had this season at the pres time, so there should be something in favor of Columbus during the final series with the champlons.—Columbus Journal.

McDermott, the pitcher recently pun chased from Louisville by Cleveland, has the appearance of a man who might be great pitcher. He is well built and appears to be possessed of great strength and speed. McDermott has much confidence in his ability as a twirler and expects to do some good work for the Cland club. In Louisville he says he badly handicapped by the wretched work for the character of the other members of the team, and this reason could not make a good shing there. He is anxiously awaiting opportunity to pitch for Cleveland.
